

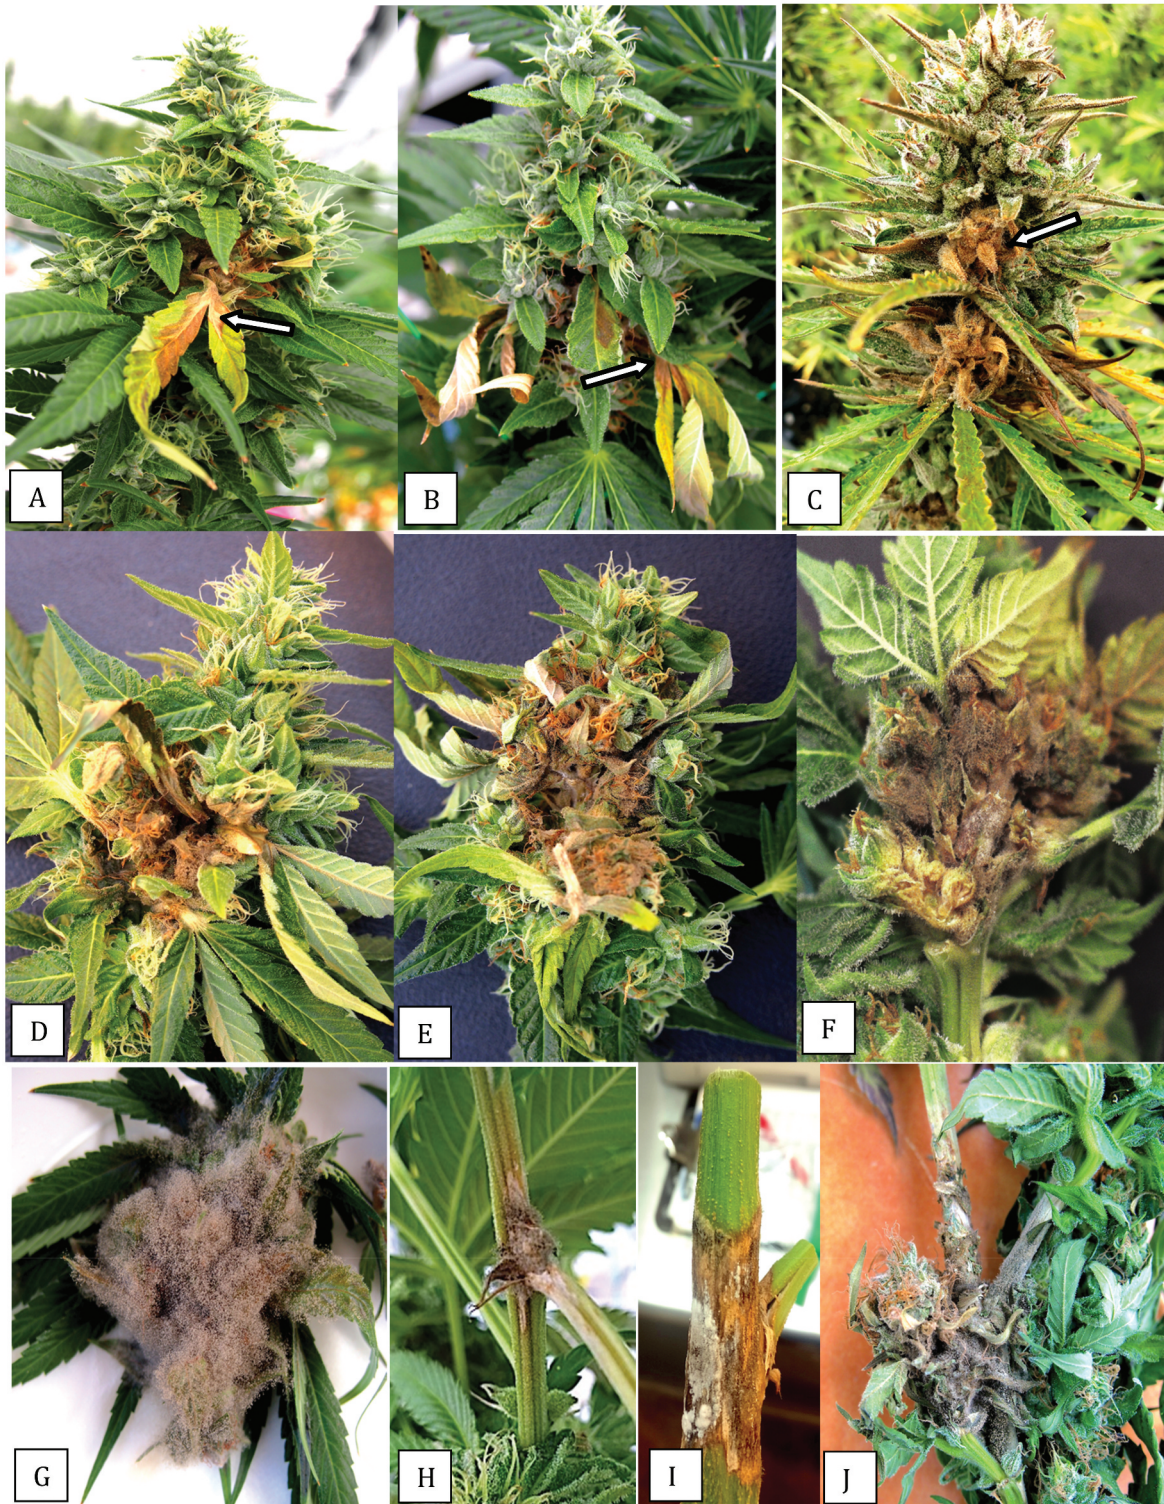

Fig. 1 (Colour online) Development of bud rot, caused by Botrytis cinerea, on cannabis inflorescences. a, Early symptom of an infected bract leaf turning yellow (arrow). b, Spread of the pathogen to several bract leaves (arrow). c, Necrotic areas on the inflorescences (arrow) due to pathogen spread. d, e, Internal decay due to pathogen development internally within the inflorescence. f, g, Sporulation of B. cinerea on infected tissues showing the characteristic grey mould symptom. h–j, Stem cankers developing at different locations on the plant.